1. On 25 June 2019, the Afghanistan Human Rights and Democracy Organization, Afghanistan Human Rights Organization, Afghanistan Forensic Science Organization, Feminine Solidarity for Justice Organization, and Afghan Victims' Families Association requested leave to jointly make submissions as an amicus curiae party ("Request").¹ This filing provides notice that 12 additional human rights organizations based in Afghanistan now join the Request.² An updated list of organizations party to the Request is appended to this notice at Annex A. The proposed submissions, if leave is granted, remain the same as those articulated in the Request.³ So do the reasons for why those submissions should be permitted.⁴

2. The addition of 12 Afghanistan human rights organizations to a single filing is intended to facilitate greater judicial economy and efficiency. It is also intended to ensure that the proposed submissions benefit from a wide and diverse collection of viewpoints from human rights organizations working in Afghanistan, all of whom possess an intimate understanding of an issue at the heart of this appeal – the meaning of justice for victims in Afghanistan.⁵
